SATURDAY, APRIL 17, 1926.

CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA, CALIFORNIA

Vol. XII, No. 11.

OLD CITY BOARD PUTS HOUSE NUMBERING INTO EFFECT

While the votes were being counted last Monday evening the city board of trustees was in session, and transacted considerable business.

The principal business had to do with opening and considering the bids with opening and consideration of bids street and Seventh avenue concrete improvement. There were four bids submitted. Archie Da Mont of Fresno was lowest, $8369.25 and was awarded the contract. Other bids were $9287.25, J. L. Connor; $9978.20, J. J. James; $10,183.50, W. A. Dontanville.

The city attorney was directed to prepare an emergency ordinance, the purpose of which is to bar all freight trucks from use of the new Ocean-Carpenter boulevard.

Owing to incorrect payment returns made by the contractor on the Seventh, Ninth and Twelfth avenue improvement, the time for protesting the assessment was postponed one week.

A communication from Dr. H. D. Main, health officer, recommended the laying of a public sewer in northeast Carmel. This recommendation is based upon a thorough investigation of the unsanitary conditions.

At the suggestion of the superintendent of streets a conference of property owners on the east side of Dolores street between Ocean and Fifth avenues, regarding sidewalk improvement, will be held. This improvement is made necessary by need for more parking space.

"If you adopt this resolution I intend to prosecute," said City Attorney Campbell, when Trustee Parkes, Goold, and Larouette pressed for a resolution putting into effect the house-numbering ordinance. The resolution was passed, so that now if house-holders do not put up numbers they are committing a misdemeanor, and are liable to arrest.

Two propositions were referred to the superintendent of streets. One had to do with the erection of a street sign at the intersection of Ocean and Mountain View avenues. The other for the trimming and removal of trees on San Antonio speedway.

The board meets again next Monday night.

PNEUMONIA TAKES CARMEL CITIZEN

Ed. Barnes is reported to have passed away last week in Amador county. A letter received here states that he had so severe a case of poison oak as to oblige him to go to a hospital. While in the hospital he contracted pneumonia.

Barnes was something of a character here. He went about doing general work, never lacking for a job, and he was always good-natured. His bowed legs, about which there was plenty of good-natured comment, were the result of an accident in a Diamond Match Company lumber camp.

E. K. BLOOD GROCERY SOLD

The grocery business and stock of the late Ernest K. Blood, has been purchased by W. E. Campbell of Hollister. Mr. Campbell announces that he will conduct the business along the lines of his predecessor, that is, buying and selling for cash.

TO ORGANIZE CARMEL P. T. A.

The spring school election, which placed two new enthusiastic members on the Sunset School Board, the dedication of the beautiful and efficient new school building, and a constant influx of new students have combined to arouse a new interest in Sunset School.

Fifty or more enthusiastic parents and friends of the cause gathered in the assembly room of the new Sunset School last Wednesday afternoon for the purpose of taking preliminary steps to organize a Carmel Parent-Teachers Club.

Mrs. J. Schoeninger, formerly of Chicago, where she was an active member of such an organization, presided and Miss Miriam A. White was secretary.

A nominating committee to recommend candidates for officers was appointed, consisting of Miss Miriam White, Mrs. R. P. Rapier and Mrs. Hannan.

Interesting talks were made by Mrs. Schoeninger, Mrs. H. L. Dickenson, Dr. A. E. Burton, Mrs. H. A. Spoehr, Miss Clara Kellogg, Mrs. Rapier, Miss Mary Powers, and others. The subjects covered included moving pictures, hot lunches, domestic science, manual training, school nurse, school athletics, etc.

Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Thornton and Mrs. Joyce were appointed a committee to secure information as to the varied activities of parent-teacher organizations.

Beautiful flower arrangements and a hospitable tea table gave quite a homelike atmosphere to the auditorium and parents and teachers took advantage of the opportunity to get better acquainted with each other over the tea cups.

On Wednesday, April 28, when the organization meets again, two organizers from Pacific Grove will be present.

DEATH TAKES PROMINENT LAWYER

George H. Richardson has gone to his long rest. After a long, trying illness, this well-known California lawyer passed away at his home here last Wednesday morning with his devoted wife and daughter at his bedside.

The Richardsons have made their home in Carmel for some time. They came here from Alameda county, where Mr. Richardson had been a practicing attorney for many years.

Mr. Richardson was Past Master of Durant Lodge No. 268 Free and Accepted Masons of Berkeley, under whose auspices the funeral services were held on Thursday.

Mrs. Laura I. Richardson and her daughter were taken to Berkeley by Mr. and Mrs. C. Chapel Judson.

As a relaxation from his arduous legal duties, Mr. Richardson took up music and was a performer of no mean ability.

KIWANIS CLUB ORGANIZED

The Monterey Peninsula Kiwanis Club has been organized. The following Carmelites have been elected to membership: Charles A. Watson, Donald L. Staniford, Frederick Godwin, W. L. Overstreet. The business standards committee is headed by Staniford.

TRUSTEES ELECTED BY CLOSE MARGIN

In a vote, the extent of which, in proportion to the registration, was the largest ever cast in Carmel, the citizens selected three new city trustees last Monday.

John B. Jordan made a runaway race of it. He received the highest vote. Next came George L. Wood, until recently president of the Carmel Protective League, and the third man was Alfred K. Miller, who defeated Fenton P. Foster by ten votes.

The trustees-elect will take office next Monday night, at which time a new president of the board will be elected. The retiring members are William T. Kibbler, Charles O. Goold, and Miss Helen W. Parkes.

JOHN B. JORDAN

CARMEL'S NEXT MAYOR

The new board will consist of the three newly-elected members and Henry P. Larouette and John B. Dennis, holdovers.

The permanent standing committees of the board are Finance, Health and Safety, Fire and Police, Water and Lights, and Streets and Highways.

Following are the election returns, which will be canvassed next Monday night:

T. L. Edler	134
E. B. Foster	193
M. L. Hamlin	5
R. H. Hoagland	139
J. B. Jordan	253
A. K. Miller	203
W. T. Kibbler	88
G. L. Wood	228

On Thursday evening, at the invitation of John B. Jordan, the members of the city board of trustees, as it will be organized next Monday, met at Pine Inn for an informal conference regarding city affairs.

A fine spirit of cooperation for the constructive administration of Carmel's municipal problems was in evidence throughout the conference.

There will be no radical or precipitate action. Some of the city departments may be reorganized from time to time as need arises. For the present all appointive officials will be retained.

John B. Jordan will probably be elected chairman of the board.

A number of sewer connections are now being made on Dolores street, preliminary to the laying of a concrete roadway, contract for which was let to a Fresno firm last Monday night.

GOLDEN BOUGH SEEKS NEW TALENT FOR PRODUCTIONS

In this issue the Theatre of the Golden Bough extends an invitation to new local players. In this connection Edward Kuster, director of the plays, says: "In making this announcement I am following a custom followed by the Santa Barbara Community Arts group, the Pasadena Community Theatre and many other community theatre organizations. In a town growing as rapidly as Carmel it is inevitable that there must be many people to whom 'art for sport's sake' would be an enjoyable diversion, but who hesitate to take the initiative.

"I have a number of interesting plays under consideration, requiring for their production people of all ages and types, and in order that these productions may be a credit to the community in the greatest possible degree I would like to cast them as truly to type as practicable. Previous experience is unnecessary—I think most directors in community dramatics eventually re-discover the old principle that an ounce of instinct is worth a ton of experience."

What we look for is to add freshness and novelty to every production by bringing forward new people, at the same time maintaining a sane balance by including in our casts those who have been gradually adding to their abilities and are favorites with local audiences. With all the various details of a theatre on my hands it is quite impossible for me to ferret out these new people, especially when they have only recently come here. May I hope, therefore, that they will call my attention to their willingness to assist in maintaining the reputation which Carmel has attained not only through the Golden Bough and its productions but through other non-professional local dramatics."

Rehearsals at the theatre take place evenings, and are short and business-like, permitting people engaged in daily occupations of all sorts to take part in the plays without fatigue and without interference with their work.

ROBSON-FORD PLAY SHOULD PROVE GOOD TONIC

A good old-fashioned mystery play is as nice as old-fashioned molasses taffy. After chocolate marshmallows one wants molasses taffy; and after psychologic plays with inconclusive endings one wants a solid play in which He gets Her, and the villain is well pegged-down in the last act.

"In the Next Room," the play George Ball and Louise Walcott are putting on at Arts and Crafts next Friday and Saturday promises to be all that. The murders in the next room are more mysterious than usual, with a sort of a Conan Doyle mystery and the villain is emphatically the one you least suspect in the first act. Eleanor Robson and Harriet Ford wrote this play, which ran well in London and New York.

I sometimes wonder if any one really enjoys a play to the full who hasn't watched it at rehearsals. The finished product may be admirable, but the finishing process is exciting. To watch, night after night, while the set is built up and its blank white takes on color, while the director tries out business and the actors drop their scripts and begin their characterizations—that's like the fun of watching your house being built instead of just coming down from Berkeley to move into it when it's finished.

The cast has old friends and new ones in it. Welcome news for a Carmel audience is that Marion Boke Todd is acting again, and opposite her is Yvonne Williams of Virginia, a new man, with interesting over-seas experience, for he organized a minstrel show in southern France and took it to all the Red Cross hospitals. Eric Wilkinson, dearly loved for his work in Dulcey, has a big part with a big bang at the end, and Tom Bickle, who plays bishop or burglar with equal poise is now a serious butler with an analytical turn of mind. Kissam Johnson as a Duchess and Gladys Vander Roest as a maid have each a guilty secret and a dramatic scene, and Mr. Vander Roest tells me that he gets comfortably killed in the first act and has no more responsibility. W. K. Bassett and E. M. Durham, also in the excellent cast of Dulcey, appear again, and George Ball plays a nervous footman, also burdened with a secret.

And then there is the Bouffe Cabinet, which says nothing and does a great deal. And there is a cigarette case. There must be a cigarette case, else, as you will see, the villain would triumph. And in this good old-fashioned play with its new-fashioned twist of events, he must be defeated so that we may all go home happy.

HENRY CLAUSEN TO SEEK POSITION AS COUNTY TREASURER

Well Known Salinas Man Announces Candidacy to Oppose J. E. Steinbeck

Henry Clausen, a well-known resident of Salinas, announces that he will be a candidate for the office of county treasurer. He needs no introduction to the voters of Monterey county, as he has lived here practically all his life. He was born in the Blanco district and was educated in the Blanco and later the Salinas schools.

He is an honest, upright man, and his friends believe he is well qualified for the position, and Mr. Clausen feels that he is fully able to perform the duties which will devolve upon him if he is elected.—Adv.

ABALONE LEAGUERS SHOULD FURNISH EXCITEMENT TOMORROW*Standing of the Clubs

	Won	Lost
OWLS	5	3
LARKS	5	3
HAWKS	5	3
EAGLES	1	7

Tomorrow is the big day in the Abalone League. The Hooper Cup series that started like a walk-away for the Owls was jazzed up last Sunday into a triple tie. The final games tomorrow will either furnish the league with a bona fide, unchallenged champion, or reduce the triple tie to a deadlock between two teams.

This is the way the stage is set for the games:

At 1:15 the Owls play the tail-end Eagles. If the Owls lose they are out of it. If they win they will be tied with the winner of the second game for the championship. The second game, between Halstead Yates' Larks and Jimmy Hopper's Hawks will be fought to a decision for the team that loses is O-U-T out. The game begins promptly at 3 p.m. and should be the most hectic contest of the season.

The assignment of the Larks and Hawks to play the second game provides a chance for the fans to see the championship decided in a single game, for if the Eagles can best Fred Bechtold's Owls, the field will be clear and the Larks or Hawks can grab the 1926 Hooper Cup by batting out a victory.

BETTER LUCK NEXT TIME

It had been anticipated that Judge Ben B. Lindsey, the noted juvenile judge of Denver, would speak in Carmel at the Golden Bough tomorrow night. A telegram from the Judge, however, who had come to the coast to attend the Luther Burbank funeral, announced the necessity of his immediate return to Denver. The telegram to the Carmel Protective League expresses regret at not being able to be present.

I thank you for your good efforts in my behalf and the confidence reposed in my ability to represent you as a member of the Board of Trustees — had I been elected.

SUMMER SCHOOL PLANS ARE ANNOUNCED

The summer school of the Theatre of the Golden Bough will open June 26, continuing for eight weeks, with a maximum enrollment of twenty-five students. Applications will be considered up to May 15, but not later.

Edward Kuster, owner and director of the Theatre, will be in personal charge of the session, and will have as assistants Louise Walcott, Robert Hestwood, Adelina Rotti and H. Remlac.

The exceptional success of last summer school has brought about inquiries from all parts of the country regarding the coming session, but all applications are being filed at present, in the belief that additional Carmel and Monterey Peninsula students will appear. Their applications will be given preference, regardless of the time of their receipt.

The school will be even more comprehensive than last year. Edward Kuster will, as formerly, conduct the classes in diction and voice projection, with a series of talks on the history and present state of the theatre.

Louise Walcott, who has become a great favorite locally for her clever portrayal of character roles, and who has had a wide and varied experience in teaching, will inculcate the principles of gesture and pantomime.

Adelina Rotti, said to be exceedingly able and well-equipped, will come out from St. Louis to train the students in stage deportment, including in her course the elements of eurythmics. Miss Rotti, pupil and dancing partner of the famous Constantin Kobloff and of Louis Chalif, and a graduate of the Dalcroze School of Eurythmics of New York, will also conduct private classes and give individual instruction in dancing. She is now on tour, and will arrive in Carmel on June 15 to organize her own work outside the School of the Theatre.

For such students as desire it, Robert Hestwood, whose work is so well and favorably known here, will provide instruction in scene design.

Supplementing Miss Rotti's development of the rhythmic sense and the feeling of ease and security before an audience, a course in elementary fencing, to promote suppleness and alertness, will be given by M. Remlac, noted fencing instructor of the Olympic Club, San Francisco.

As in previous seasons, one or more plays will be produced during the session, with student players and executives. Last year's "Merton of the Movies," with William Shepard in the title role and Mary Shallue as "Flips," proved a revelation to those who came expecting little from novices, and the recent Kuster production of "Dulcy" again demonstrated the efficacy of Stanislavski's principles of stage direction, to which the Golden Bough director stands committed. In the course of the student productions these principles will be stated and explained, and the work of the famous Moscow Art Theatre described. In these productions practical experience will also be gained in the use of modern lighting schemes and the handling of the large switch-board and dimmer-bank, as well as experience in designing, making and setting up scenery and "props" and the arrangement and handling of screens and draperies.

The Golden Bough summer school is not in the ordinary sense a professional school, although all former students who have entered the professional theatre are making rapid progress toward exceptional success. The principal aim of the school, as set forth in its original prospectus, is to supply

AMERICAN FOREST WEEK

The week of April 18 to 24 has been designated as Forest Week. The following extracts are from President Coolidge's proclamation.

"In again proclaiming American Forest Week it is fitting that, while giving full weight to the evils resulting from impoverished forests and idle land, I should lay stress upon the outward spread of forestry in industrial practice and land usage. Too long have we as a nation consumed our forest wealth without adequate provision for its wise utilization and renewal. But a gratifying change is taking place in the attitude of our industries, our landowners, and the American people toward our forests.

"The wise use of land is one of the main foundations of sound national economy. It is the corner stone of national thrift. The waste or misuse of natural resources cuts away the groundwork on which national prosperity is built. If we are to flourish, as a people and as individuals, we must neither wastefully hoard nor wastefully exploit, but skillfully employ and renew the resources that nature has entrusted to us. America's forest problem essentially is a problem involving the wise use of land that can and should produce crops of timber.

"Flourishing woodlands, however, mean more than timber crops, permanent industries, and an adequate supply of wood. They minister to our need for outdoor recreation; they preserve animal and bird life; they protect and beautify our hillsides and feed our streams; they preserve the inspiring natural environment which has contributed so much to American character.

"Although our national progress in forestry has been well begun, much remains to be done through both concerted and individual effort. We must stamp out the forest fires which still annually sweep many wooded areas, destroying timber the nation can ill afford to lose and killing young growth needed to constitute the forests of the future. Forest fires, caused largely by human indifference or carelessness, are the greatest single obstacle to reforestation and effective forest management.

"We must encourage and extend methods of timber cutting which perpetuate the forest while harvesting its products. We must plant trees in abundance on idle land where they can profitably grow. We must examine taxation practices that may form economic barriers to timber culture. We must encourage the extension of forest ownership on the part of municipalities, counties, states, and the federal government. And we must take common counsel in public meetings to the end that the forestry problems of each region may be well considered and adequately met."

to amateurs and professionals alike a technique supplanting the "hokum" and "bag of tricks" of the old-fashioned actor, enabling the player to project without apparent effort the simple and sincere characterization which is the key-note of the new acting. The results already attained with Carmel amateurs, even those who have had only the experience of a single production, are pointed at as proof that training of this sort, far from "professionalizing" the Little Theatre movement, simply serves to make amateur acting and stagecraft more enjoyable both to the amateurs themselves and to their audiences.

WRITER OF ELEVENTH-HOUR LETTER IS SCORED

In an attempt to influence the recent city election, a person signing himself "R. H. D." published an article in the form of an advertisement in last Saturday's issue of the Peninsula Herald.

The author of the article is the same person who two years ago violated all the tenets of common decency, the spirit of American fair play, and respect for good citizenship by publishing a similar letter on the eve of election when the party attacked had no opportunity to reply.

The latest letter, except where the candidates' platforms were quoted, was a mass of inaccuracies and misstatements of fact.

William T. Kibbler was the principal target for attack. Every action of the trustees over a period of eight years thought by the writer to be inimicable to the interests of the city were attributed to Mr. Kibbler.

On the Seventh, Ninth and Twelfth avenue improvement, the writer asks: "Why was the contract accepted on a one-man bid?" Answer: For the simple reason that the one bid received was reasonable and therefore accepted.

Again the writer asks: "Why hasn't the funds of the (Harrison) Library been turned over to the proper heir (the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea)?" Answer: The City of Carmel-by-the-Sea is not the heir. The people, through the board of trustees, are the heirs. The funds are in the Bank of Carmel in the names of all of the trustees.

Referring to the voting combinations published in the Pine Cone on April 12, it may be of interest to the critical letter-writer to know that the combinations were printed in quotation marks, and were obtained by interview.

The placards calling attention to the election date were not ordered by the trustees as the result of an erroneous news item in the Pine Cone. They were ordered because the trustees had decided not to send out sample ballots. The Pine Cone has yet to cause the city any expense by an error in a legal advertisement.

"Why are so many errors committed by the City Attorney," asks the writer. Yet he fails to point out a single error.

The only purpose for mentioning this letter at all is to set the people straight as to the facts.

Its influence on the election was nil. It is said that the candidate in whose interest the advertisement was published was defeated.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

"It is cheaper to PREVENT fires than to control them."

April 18 to 24 is Forest Fire Prevention Week, a time set aside by Presidential Proclamation for the Forest Service to carry the message of fire prevention to the public.

In addition to other forms of public appeal, the Manzanita Theatre will show a two-reel Forest Service film on Wednesday evening, April 21. Part of this film was taken on the Monterey Division of the Santa Barbara National Forest and several prominent Monterey county stockmen will be seen in it. The picture will show graphically the damage done by fires in soil erosion and timber destruction and also the benefits that follow fire prevention and control.

As recreational use of the National Forests increases with each year, no one living in the west is unaffected by the loss that fire causes, and all share in the benefits that follow fire prevention.

TRIBUTE TO FREE

Tonight, Californians in Washington will honor Congressman Arthur M. Free of San Jose with a banquet at the Hamilton Hotel. The affair is given under the auspices of the California State Society, of which Free has been the President for two years.

Former Congressman James H. MacLafferty of Oakland, now assistant to the Secretary of Commerce, will be the toastmaster. Several members of Congress will speak.

Free has been a tireless worker for the California State Society and has been principally responsible for the growth of the society during his term of office.

THE SPORTSMAN'S CODE

A set of rules for the conduct of its members has been issued by the Southern Monterey County Sportsman's Association. Here they are:

Each member agrees not to shoot a fire-arm within one hundred and fifty yards of any occupied building.

Each member promises to never leave any gates or bars open on private or other properties, on which he may have occasion to pass through.

Each member shall never leave his camp fire burning unattended and must be sure that it is out if not attended.

Each member shall never throw away a lighted cigarette, cigar or match where it is apt to cause fire. Be sure that it is out before so doing.

Each member shall police his camp at least once a day.

Each member shall not pollute a stream or spring by throwing refuse into same.

Each member shall report to the owner or property any damage that may come to his notice.

Each member agrees that he will never cut a fence or force a lock without permission of the owner.

TO IMPORT INDIANS

John Northern Hilliard, who is to produce Mary Austin's "Fire" at the Forest Theater, will shortly take a trip to the Hopi Reservation in Arizona. One of the features of the play will be the fire dance, which will be given by real Indians, the engagement of whom is a part of the trip.

CLEAN, SANITARY, SPOTLESS, WHITE

Prompt Service and Courtesy to Patrons Mark Our Satisfactory Relations With The Public

It is pleasant to handle the fresh, snow-white wash as it comes from Del Monte Laundry—to know that it is strictly sanitary, sterilized in the wash, and to feel the smooth service of perfectly ironed bedding or garments.

You will save yourself much time, worry and expense by sending your wash—all of it—to the Del Monte Laundry, which will give you prompt, courteous, efficient and highly satisfactory service.

The Reach of the Spoken Word

WHEN the small family group of primitive man expanded into the cave community, a means of communicating beyond the normal range of the voice became imperative.

Then someone discovered that by making a speaking-trumpet of his hands, he could increase the reach of the spoken word, could add new effectiveness to the human voice.

Other means of transmitting intelligence, in their turn, were found to serve the needs of man: the signal drum and the beacon fire; the written message, carried by runner, by rider, by water or by rail; and finally, the telegraph.

But these messages, however carried, lacked the direct and personal qualities of conversation. They were but symbols of speech, the shadows of the spoken word.

Then, fifty years ago, came the telephone. A half-century of scientific research has extended the reach of man's voice to thousands of miles. The Bell System's vast network of lines provides a service nationwide in scope. The American continent today is no larger, from a communication standpoint, than was the prehistoric community in which the cavemen shouted from cliff to cliff.

SHAKESPEARE UP-TO-DATE TELLS MOTORISTS' TERRIBLE TOLL

SHAKESPEARE'S seven ages of mankind made no reference to the number who were cut off in their prime by automobiles. If he had, suggests the Stewart-Warner Safety Council, it might have run something like this parody on his famous lines:

At first the infant,
Killed by a truck while in his nurse's arms,
And then the careless schoolboy with his marbles,
Playing in the streets after his lessons
Are over. And then the lover,
Absent-minded, walking with a box of candy
Under his arm, to see his loved one,
Is struck by a taxi and hurtled to the ground.
Next comes the gay young blood
Out for his evening's entertainment, whom
Sixty miles an hour lands forty years too soon
Upon a slab in some unfriendly morgue.
And then the banker, full of worldly pride and honors,
Jay-walks across the street between two mighty deals of finance,
And wakes to find Saint Peter quizzing him.
Next, the family man, with years upon him,
Confused and jostled in the crowd,
Mistaken, and dies amid thanksgiving
That his last premium was paid up.
And last, hoary age, tottering and feeble,
Perhaps with crutch, or eye too dimmed with time,
An easy victim for some selfish motorist,
Sins care, sins thought, sins skill, sins everything—but speed.

GOLDEN RULE UNIVERSAL

AN indication of the golden thread that runs through all religions, ancient and modern, pagan and Christian, collected from here and there expressed sentiments upon ideals; Duty, for example, or Diligence, or Tolerance, or Individuality, or Integrity. Everywhere is found exquisite simplicity and inimitable brevity, and everywhere the central idea was the same. Take the precepts on Justice.

Hindu: Do not force upon thy neighbor a hat that hurts thine own head.

Persian: Avoid everything calculated to injure others.

Chinese: He who strives to treat others as he would be treated by them will not fail to come near to the perfect life.

Grecian: He who commits injustice is always more unhappy than he who suffers from it.

Roman: Let not another's guilt make you sin.

Jewish: Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.

Christian: Whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so unto them.

HAVE YOU A LITTLE SLOGAN?

NOWHERE else on earth has the slogan or catch-phrase reached as high a stage of development as in the United States. By the same token the slogan does not play as considerable a part in the commercial, political and civic life of other peoples as it does of the Americans.

None will deny the value of the catch-phrase in national advertising and even in local commercialism. Everybody knows to what particular product you refer when you say "Babies cry for it," "There's always a picture ahead," "His Master's Voice."

It is irrefutable that slogans sell where nothing else will, but it would be unjust to the public to say that it takes the catch-phrases at their word. Barnum annually proclaimed his circus as "bigger and better than ever," and his successors are emulating him today. But nobody goes to the circus just because of this "slight exaggeration." The catch-phrase or advertising slogan is as much a part of American business methods as advertising itself. There is nothing illegitimate or reprehensible in the institution, but its power as a salesman is almost supernatural.

KINDNESS TO ANIMALS*Cruelty the Curse of the World

Someone has said that poverty is the curse of the world. We could wisely include cruelty as its hand-maiden, for while poverty is largely a physical suffering with a retinue of crime and misery in its train, cruelty is a degeneracy of mind, heart, soul and body, and leaves its slimy trail on rich and poor alike.

There is no higher attainment in the field of noble endeavor than the subtle training of the impressionable heart and mind of a child; the prevention of all cruelty to humans and the lesser animals through a systematic teaching of personal recognition of the right of life and liberty—food and shelter—comfort and happiness for all created things—and the awakening of a responsibility fraught with a sense of mercy, love and justice.

Appeals to Women

The Juggernaut of cruelty is today the one great menace of the world, and lies "like a tremendous blot upon the record of the centuries." We would earnestly appeal to the women of the nation and the world, who are so largely responsible for the perpetuation of cruelty, all forms of which are made manifest in their attainment in the exotic world of fashion; that the wonderful furs, so costly because of luster and quality, are vibrant with the agony of animals that have been skinned alive and whose days of torture in steel traps amid the winter's cruel torments have martyred them; and that the creatures of the abattoir slaughtered so monstrously that their cries of terror and supplication resound a misere forever in the memory of those who hear—all these and many other forms of commercialized cruelty constitute a condition of appalling magnitude.

We would appeal for the trained animals of the screen, vaudeville and the circus. The public is not aware of the atrocious cruelty meted out to ninety-nine per cent of these animals, where steel prods, red hot irons, wires, drugs and other instruments of torture are generally used by trainers. The depiction of real or suggested cruelty upon the screen is a distinct menace to the impressionable mind of children, and adults and should be prohibited by law. In the filming of such great pictures as "The Covered Wagon," "The Ten Commandments" and the "Ben Hur" chariot races there has been most abhorrent cruelty to animals.

Attacks Game Hunting

Hunting big game in Africa and elsewhere, actuated by a lust for blood, should be condemned by an enlightened public as a violation of the rights and sanctity of the jungle homes of the animals of the wild, as their rightful heritage in God's bequeathed domain.

Lastly, we would fervently appeal to the illuminated conscience of all people against the arch-cruelty of the age—Vivisection. A medical science that involves the exquisite torture of sentient animals in the vague hope of benefiting the physical ills of humans is founded upon false premise. Christianity does not approve or condone a science that has for its theory "the doing of evil that good may come."

Mother Love

In conclusion, we would appeal for a universal mother-love which should run throughout the world—God made—for all His creatures. Such a love as Beckett, Arch-Bishop of Canterbury, so beautifully and tenderly illustrates:

"I once was out with Henry in the days when Henry loved me. We came upon a wild fowl sitting on her nest, so still I reached my hand and touched

SESQUICENTENNIAL HISTORY SKETCHES

The one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence will be observed by the Sesquicentennial International Exposition, which opens at Philadelphia, June 1, 1926.

JOHN HANCOCK

Among the many striking characters of the fifty-six signers of the Declaration of Independence, the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of which will be celebrated by the Sesquicentennial International Exposition opening in Philadelphia June 1, 1926, is John Hancock, president of the Continental Congress and the first to affix his signature to the document.

He was a graduate of Harvard, a wealthy man and a courtly figure; gold and silver adorned his garments, and on public occasions his carriages, horses and servants in livery emulated the splendor of the nobility. His mansion displayed the magnificence of the courtier, rather than the simplicity of a republican. Rivalling the British in the gorgeousness of his attire, John Hancock was in striking contrast to the colonists who affected a plain mode of dress. Because of these tendencies doubts of his patriotic integrity were circulated.

John Hancock was an eloquent orator, and in commemoration of the Boston Massacre he delivered such a stirring speech no doubt was left in the mind of anyone as to his perfect patriotism. Hancock from this time became as odious to the royal governor and his adherents as he was dear to the republican party. By this speech he put his life in jeopardy.

The British were determined to capture him, and we all know what his fate would have been had their efforts proved successful. John Hancock was spared to render his country splendid service. In promoting the liberties of his country he unstintingly expended great wealth and was willing to make many sacrifices. At the time the American Army was besieging Boston, the destruction of Boston was considered. By the execution of these plans Hancock's whole fortune would have been sacrificed. Yet he immediately acceded to the measure and declared his readiness to surrender his all should his country require it.

His memory as one of the immortal signers of the Declaration, who pledged for their country's sake their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honors, is a cherished ideal in the hearts of all Americans.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED

One of our citizens, Preston W. Search, has just passed his seventy-third milestone, April 10th. At his birthday party, given at the family home, Casa de Rosas, by Mrs. Search, were two of his sisters, Mrs. O. J. Taylor of Sidney, Ohio, Mrs. W. C. Butcher of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Mrs. F. H. Steele, his niece, and her little son, John, of Amoy, China. Many local friends remembered him with flowers and other tokens of esteem.

Mr. Search came to Carmel in 1914, retiring then from active professional life, having been superintendent of schools in Ohio, Colorado, Massachusetts, and at Los Angeles, with fifteen years later spent in the lyceum lecture field. He has also been a writer and magazine editor of distinction, but, from a wealth of experience as a traveler, has chosen Carmel for what he calls the Indian summer of his life.

In the quiet of his home, Mr. Search greatly enjoyed the unforgetting remembrances of friends. Among other messages received from long-ago students, educators and friends, the following one, written by a prominent Ohio business man (a student of fifty years ago), was especially representative:

"Dear Prof. Search:

"I hope this will reach you by the 10th when you mark another milestone in your life's journey.

"I do not know how old you are; but you are young to me, for it was in the splendor of your manhood that I knew you best, and when you helped me most.

"The thoughts of those days come back to me vividly, as we used to gather at the old school house on the hill, where I spent some of the most pleasant times of my life, under your care and instruction, for which I am very grateful.

"I notice, now and then, the passing of an associate of former years, and

How Many Horses Will One Pole Carry ?

The answer is almost any number you wish, when you are talking about electrical horses or "horsepower."

Wires to deliver 50,000 electrical horsepower can be supported on the same poles that would be needed to carry wires delivering only 10,000 horsepower.

This is only one of the economies that are brought about by the building of large, efficient power plants that deliver energy to many cities and rural districts through interconnected systems.

Courage, money and skill worked this plan out and made electric service possible to the farming districts.

Rose-Colored and

BUTTERICK

The first walk in life begins gaily in flower shades of rose, larkspur blue, mignonette green or poppy scarlet. There are other diverting colors that are quite lovely in broadcloth or light-weight flannel, such as carrot, grasshopper green, cookie beige, taffy, tapioca or biscuit. Apple-green albatross with a frock of apple-blossom-pink cotton Georgette underneath to match the same pink in the coat lining would be adorable for a blonde. A brunette in amber-colored cr pe de Chine would be irresistible. The coat can be made without the smocking, but it's smarter with it.

ART NOTES

STILL, THEY LIKE OUR DOLLARS

The following interview appeared in the Dearborn Independent:

"I don't like America to act like a hog, even in the name of Art. You've heard of the mean, penny-squeezing deacon who stripped the widow's house of furniture because she needed money. That's exactly what we are doing to Europe's art treasures. And I have seen the cost of it in good feeling. We may hang up Europe's pictures on our walls, but let me tell you that in consequence Europe is taking down the picture of America from its walls. It is scandalous the rapacity which our dealers show in England and France—especially in France, where the difference in exchange makes it sheer robbery. In England it is conscienceless greed and callous pride; in France it is robbery.

"Suppose America were in such a plight that some supercilious Englishman should come over and buy Mount Vernon for removal to England, and some Frenchman should gobble up all the Lincoln relics we have for the enrichment of some Paris museum. We'd hate them for their bad taste, wouldn't we? Well, we have done something like that to France and England—something that no amount of dollars could ever compensate. And it will rankle—believe me, it will rankle. When you think of it, governments are not nearly so provocative of international bad feeling as individuals are."

HISTORIC SCULPTURE

The sadness, sorrow and suffering which comes to human beings through a lifetime of experience is strongly imprinted upon the features of the sculptured marble figure of "My Mother," by Ivan Mestrovic. This has just been acquired by the Chicago Art Institute, having been purchased from the artist through the Alexander Waller memorial fund. It will be recalled that among many notable works by Mestrovic exhibited in the Art Institute last spring the figure of his mother was one of the most striking and unusual. The figure is life-size, about three-quarter length, and shows the sculptor's mother with a winding scarf wound about the head and gathered in conventional folds to the tip of the chin. She sits erect with clasped hands resting upon her lap, her eyes closed and head bent slightly down. On the features is an expression of such resignation to the sorrows and sufferings of the world that it might be used as a symbolical figure of Motherhood, against whose tender bleeding heart have beaten the wars and the crimes and the terror of the ages.

Interest in the New York sales of Lord Leverhulme's art collections has revived discussion of the old question of an artist's rights in his pictures after they are sold. This philanthropist-merchant, the man who built Port Sunlight, didn't like the hands in one of his portraits and cut off that portion of the canvas, much to the painter's distress. Whistler once made off with a painting with the remark that the buyer didn't deserve to possess it.

TELEPHONE POPULATION GROWS SIXTEENFOLD SINCE 1900

The telephone population of the United States has grown sixteen-fold since 1900. Twenty-five years ago there were a million telephones in this country—now there are sixteen million. The usefulness is measured largely by the number of people that can be reached through it. One telephone alone is absolutely useless; it becomes serviceable only when it is connected to wires that reach to other telephones. The more telephones there are connected to a single system, the more useful each one of them becomes.

APRIL SNOW
Circle of Enchantment

By MARION B. MCAULAY

There's been a snow storm!
The branches of the hawthorn tree
Outside my door
Are bending 'neath the snowy burden.
So thick it lies that I can scarcely see
The crisp green leaves
Or scarlet berries of the winter's ripening.

The Banksia arbor, too, is splashed with white;

And yet—'tis April and last night
I saw our garden all abloom
With roses and ranunculus.

Oh, Fairyland where April snows
Are hawthorn bloom and Lady Banksia roses!

Mrs. Josephine Loomis has returned from Burlingame, and is occupying her cottage on north Lincoln.

SUCCESS

Do you want to be successful? If so there is a plan of salvation for your financial affairs as well as for your soul. You have not been successful? Ah! Then you have had your feet on the reverse pedal! No wonder you have been going backwards when you might have been going ahead.

You are right now in the midst of a Golden Harvest of Opportunity without knowing how to reap it. Let your Life be written in a Major Key! Put on a new Record; everybody is tired of the old one—even yourself.

Don't play the down and out role any longer! You don't have to. You can succeed. You will succeed. The secret of success is confidence. All business and happiness is based on it. Confidence in yourself and the confidence of others in you.

The man who lives by the Golden Rule and pays when he promises has the confidence of the world. You can have it. Say you will have it and you will succeed.

PLEADS FOR CONSTRUCTIVE EFFORT

The Carmel trustee election is now over. At solicitation of friends, seven very good citizens have been candidates; and, of these, three very good men have been elected. Now comes the time for cooperative support by the people.

Carmel has been a very difficult place in which to do effective official work. With our discovered retreat springing full-fledged from rural babyhood to city expectancy and needs, our representatives have been compelled to attempt results with very inadequate resources and supported by very divided public opinion. We are all individualists and indiscriminate critics. In our short civic history quite a number of our best citizens have consented to serve as trustees, but with very disheartening experiences. Probably not one of these would be willing to offer services again. Unappreciative criticism and post-mortem endorsement are poor rewards to give devoted officers who generously serve without pay. Shall the new board be compelled to work under the same conditions? If so, then will its efforts be likewise limited in efficiency and disappointing. It takes more than officers to make efficient city government.

We need civic team work and supporting appreciation; but, by all means, we must place our unreserved confidence in the representatives we have chosen. In particular, the conditions under which our delegated officers have been compelled to transact business should be changed. I have had nearly fifty years of responsible administrative life and I have never known efficient or happy results to attend the vaudeville plan of holding business meetings. No cabinet in business, church or state, certainly no corporate body of control, would ever think of attempting results that way. Successful team work is not possible where individual members are firing at the galleries or playing for the applause of audiences.

The Carmel trustees should conduct their intimate discussions and do decisive business in executive sessions. They should keep open records of all proceedings and make complete report in the current print, granting hearings only as helpful to their acquirement of facts. If the people want to discuss, let them adopt the Boston plan of ringing the bell in "the Cradle of Liberty," there to meet for the formulation of community appeals. But never should the executive chamber be permitted to degenerate into a place of entertainment for habitual attendants. This is the only way in which effective administrative work can be done. Having elected our officers for responsible execution let us trust them and give them favorable conditions and appreciative support.

SCHOOL-BOYS PLAY GOOD, CLEAN BALL

Carmel schoolboys are fighting out a series of ball games that began a week ago yesterday with a battle between Billy Heron's "Reds" and Dale Leidig's "Blues." It resulted in a 4 to 1 win for the "Reds" and Wednesday of this week Captain Heron's team repeated its victory, 10 to 7. The third game was set for yesterday.

The games are in the nature of a try-out looking toward the organization of a junior baseball league to play for a cup which the publisher of the Pine Cone has offered for annual competition by Carmel's schoolboys.

The feature of the first game was the fast, clean playing by both teams. Only two errors were charged up and these were matched by two rattling good double plays. Milton Roche's triple, a legitimate two base hit that was stretched an extra base by fast running and a flashing slide, was the feature of the contest. Ed Dewey, losing pitcher, struck out eleven men.

The game Wednesday was a seesaw affair in which the Blues got away to a lead of four to one. The Reds tallied two along about the sixth inning then began scoring heavily. Dale Leidig's stalwarts entered the ninth inning on the wrong end of a 10 to 7 score, but then and there they inserted the fireworks in the afternoon's affair. With two on base, Ambrose Love smashed out a ball that looked to be ticketed for a long hit. And just when it seemed that the Blues were going to tie it up Bill Heron saved his Reds by one of the most phenomenal catches ever seen on the Abalone League grounds. Dale Leidig furnished a star play by jumping into the air and pulling down a liner that looked good for three bases.

INVITES the residents of Carmel to support its endeavor to maintain the freshness and novelty of its productions, and to uphold the high reputation which it—and through it all Carmel—enjoys.

IT ASKS newcomers and oldtimers alike who might regard as an agreeable diversion occasional participation in productions of the Theatre to send their names to the Director. Experience unnecessary—age and type immaterial. The listing of these names carries no obligation—but it will be of great assistance, when a play is under consideration, in determining by immediate interviews whether the play can be locally produced.

Pine Needles

General W. S. Schuyler and wife left last week for the east. They will be away about three months.

The library connected with the Game Cock establishment is now in charge of Mrs. Bonnie Gottfried.

Mrs. Ethel P. Young and her daughter, Mrs. Robert G. Stanton, spent several days in Los Angeles this week.

Jesse Lynch Williams, the well-known author, has returned from the east. He and Mrs. Williams are planning a visit to Edward Stewart White at Burlingame.

Contractor Percy Parkes is building an attractive cottage in Pacific Grove, on the newly-paved section of Gibson avenue near the Municipal park. The house is being built for C. M. Harris, Jr.

Excavation of the lot south of the Pine Cone building is now under way preparatory to the erection of an attractive studio structure to be occupied by Bonnie Lee, formerly of Laguna Beach. Contractor Hugh M. Comstock will erect the building.

Writing to a friend here, Rev. Geo. M. Dorwart, in Paris, says: "We've had a wonderful trip, and, with the English, we've all been 'jolly' well, but, believe me, there is only one U. S. A., notwithstanding the Eighteenth Amendment. Foreign governments enact assinine laws as well."

Louis S. Slevin and Courtland J. Arne have returned from a two days' outing at Paraiso Springs, where they took the health-giving baths.

The tea held at Pine Inn on Tuesday for the benefit of St. Anne's Guild was largely attended and netted the fine sum of thirty-three dollars.

He Was Thinking of Monday A.M.

Discussing the city board of trustees a few days ago a citizen referred to the old members as the two "hangovers."

Mrs. Donald L. Staniford and small son spent a few days this week in San Francisco and in Gilroy, where they visited Mrs. Staniford's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nels Rasmussen.

District Ranger H. R. Valentine, of the Monterey National Forest, was a Carmel visitor this week. Valentine has taken the place of Ranger C. S. Chamberlain who has gone to farming down King City way.

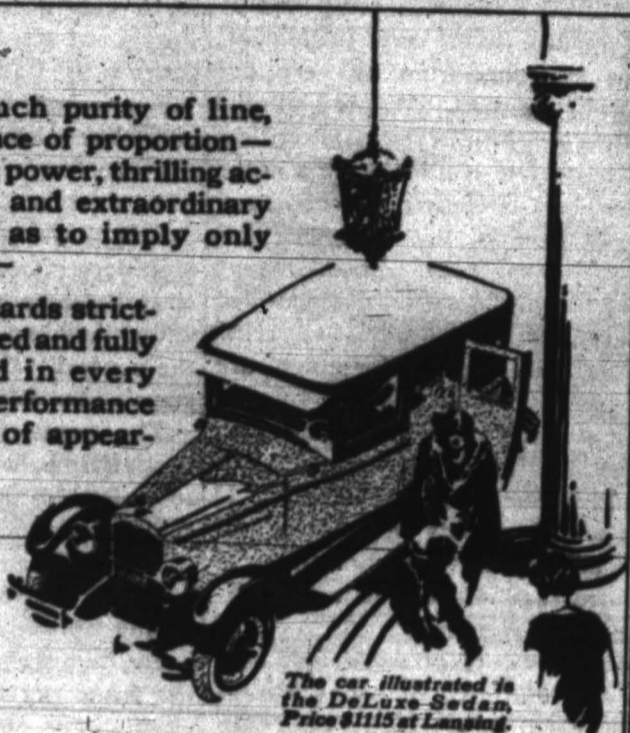

Dr. and Mrs. William Newton of this city had as last week-end guest Dr. Robert Newton of the chemistry department of McGill University. He is giving a course of lectures in the University of California.

The betrothal of Miss Margery Treat, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Fred A. Treat, and sister of Mrs. Julian Phillips of this city, to Eugene Seofield, is announced. The wedding will take place in Salinas on June 9.
